BEECHAM'S PILLS

Love of The Wild

ARCHIE P. McKISHNIE
Printed by Special Arrangements with Thos. Allen, Toronto, Ont.

He sat down on a stool and started to unlace his moccasins, whistling an old tune beneath his breath. Boy arose and, walking to the window, gazed out across his kingdom. An owl was hooting from a distant perch. Down in the deep shadow of a fox called, and from the sheep-coral came the soft bleating of a late lamb. The chickens in the coop stirred and voiced their uneasiness. Outside on a well-worn spot a dog stretched himself, arose and sniffed the breeze, then assumed his former position.

Boy turned to the long cupboard near the hearth.
"Seems I can't be myself these days," he said. "I forgot that you might be hungry after your tramp about to-night. Set up, Bill, and have a bit of turkey."

He placed the carcass of a cold fowl on the table, and from the milk-house outside fetched bread and butter. Paisley drew his stool up to the table.
"Ain't you eatin'?" he asked.
"Not hungry," answered Boy.
"Seems I ain't like anythin' I used to be any more. All day long I've been thinkin' about a lot of no-count things that happened years ago. Little things I've done and seen. You see, Bill, it seems, some nights, when I'm awake, that I can see everything just as plain as I saw it then. Last night I was listless to the rubber sweepin' against my skill. My oar was poked in a bog and my boat-pointed was tied to it. I was tired with a live minnie, and the creek was a clear bottle-green. The pond-lily roots lay there six feet below me, and the bass swam in and out—yes, I know how they did before the mill was up, Bill!"

Paisley nodded and looked back over his shoulder at the assassin-tongue full of turkey and bread.

"And as they'd do again," he asserted in muffled tones, "I've been thinkin' about a lot of no-count things that happened years ago. Little things I've done and seen. You see, Bill, it seems, some nights, when I'm awake, that I can see everything just as plain as I saw it then. Last night I was listless to the rubber sweepin' against my skill. My oar was poked in a bog and my boat-pointed was tied to it. I was tired with a live minnie, and the creek was a clear bottle-green. The pond-lily roots lay there six feet below me, and the bass swam in and out—yes, I know how they did before the mill was up, Bill!"

Paisley put his hand on Boy's knee. "I know what's doin' it all," he said. "I know just what's doin' it all. You're worryin'. That's what you're doin'. You shouldn't, 'cause Halibut and his gang ain't goin' to get this bush, not by a danged sight. You're thinkin' that you won't fish no more like you used to; that you and that rat-trap won't tramp together no more in your own little world. But you will. You'll always outdo it, boy. You take old Bill's word for it, you ain't got nothin' to worry yourself sick about." "Somehow I feel sort of helpless," sighed Boy. "Maybe I'm a coward, 'cause I feel like hidin'; only the fight in me makes me keep to the o'pin. You've seen a young partner when you walked upon him unexpected-like. The little beggar just grabs a leaf and turns over his back, holdin' in the leaf over him. You and me know where he's at, 'cause we see that leaf movin' after a time; but nobody who ain't a Bushwhacker could find him Bill."

"And like him, you naturally want to lay low, eh, boy?"
"Yes, as though I want to cover up; not because I'm scared, but 'cause it seems the natural thing to do. Then I get over that feelin' and the next thing I know I'm carryin' my rifle at full cock and keepin' a lookout. I don't know how this is goin' to end, Bill. I sure don't."

Paisley stood up.
"Boy," he said earnestly, "you'd best be careful what you do. Don't you fire first. I ain't advisin' you to leave your rifle on the rack, but you know that us Bushwhackers don't shoot to scare. Ammunition's too scarce for that. If you was to kill one of Halibut's gang now, it would make things bad for us all."

"The traps ain't set and the rats have left their houses," said Boy divaricly. "All along the creek are dead runs, and there's no use trappin' there. The ducks have left our shores and they've gone to the Point grounds. There's nothin' here, Bill, but the crash and buzz and whistle of that mill. The turkeys don't come on the ridges like they used to; the deer stay back in the swamps; and all through this woods them sounds are chasin' the fur and game further back. And now he's goin' to send his schooner in here. Think of it, Bill. He's goin' to sail across to pay and up Lee Creek for his lumber. Old Noah was here this mornin' and he said he was goin' to work for Halibut, too, and I can't understand that."

"What's the old injun goin' to do?" grunted Paisley. "He can't work—he's too old."

"He's goin' to watch the boat. It looks as if Halibut's afraid we'll burn her. I don't know why he should think that, but Noah says it's better for him to be on the boat than anybody else. And he's right. He didn't tell me much—you know what a silent old fellow he is. But I know he's been over to see Halibut. Noah ain't against us; he thinks too much of Goss for that, but there's something he knows that we don't know. See him watchin' Goss a lot. I'd give a good deal of money just what's in his mind."

"Why, there's nothin' in his mind. Halibut said, 'Old Injun, do you want a job standin' watch on my boat when I send her down the creek? The Bushwhackers?' And Noah he says, 'Much good. Noah knows that he can watch Halibut. He's a better man than we can watch him. Of course, I don't mean to say Noah would be traitor to any man of trocked feet—we both know he wouldn't. But he's there to watch things for us as well as Halibut, Boy.'"

"Colonel Halibut's comin' for more than his own," said Boy gloomily. Paisley stretched his long arms.

"Well," he laughed, "I've heard poises when bees have been workin' among 'em. They didn't molest me any—not to the point, though, I dived a little chap with flour and trailed him down to his tree. I was hungry for money and wanted to hog it. When I started to cut down that tree I found Mr. Bee, who was quite a good fellow among the poises, some-thin' of a hollerer, but it came to protectin' his own. It learned me a lesson. Now, when I hanker for honey, I get to the place and listen to him. We can't stop Halibut, but from comin' up Lee Creek, but we can stop him from hoggin' our homestead out of us; so we worry no more. Come on to b'd, Boy. Mornin' will come right soon, and we've a lot of traps to set."

Boy picked up the candle and led the way to the loft.
"My, but it's a grand place to sleep, ain't it?" said Paisley, stooping low from bumping his head on the rafters. "You thought it was a little better, didn't you? You sure should."

"I used to," said Boy. "Maybe I'll be able to again. It's restful all right, Bill. I'll be here and listen to the rain patterin' on the roof. And in the summer the leaves fall little by little. Once I was out there, I caught a wild-cat across the open and he treed up here. I tried to scare him away, but every time I went to the roof on the inside he would spit and snarl out there on the outside. I had to get up and shoot him at last. 'Sure,' said Bill dreamily. He had stretched himself out on the willow bed, and already healthy sleep was upon him, and he was leading him from the late day into strange by-paths of dreams which he never remembered."

CHAPTER XVI.
Preparing For The Loggin'.

Next morning at break of day Paisley and Boy led their rats-traps, all talked and laughed together. It was real, I tell you, Bill. It wasn't a dream, 'cause my eyes were wide open. That sort of thing scares me. I don't understand it."

Paisley put his hand on Boy's knee. "I know what's doin' it all," he said. "I know just what's doin' it all. You're worryin'. That's what you're doin'. You shouldn't, 'cause Halibut and his gang ain't goin' to get this bush, not by a danged sight. Increase Production of Penitentiary Industries

Proposal for Utilization of Convict Labor to Gain Results

An increase in the producing activities of the penitentiaries of Canada is said to be among the reforms which are being considered by the commission which is now enquiring into conditions with a view toward reform. The proposal would involve the utilization of convict labor in the manufacture of clothing, boots, etc., coupled with an extension of truck garden and fruit growing activities. A daily allowance would be made to the convicts, to be paid to their dependents, if any, or kept until the terms of the particular prisoner had expired. This scheme has been worked out with marked success in certain of the state penitentiaries across the line. In fact in some cases the production and revenues thereof have been so great as to pay the expenses of the institution and contribute considerably to the state treasury.

The scheme, if adopted, must be such as not to seriously compete with the ordinary labor market. A further reform proposed is said to be the doing away with the locking up of convicts on holidays which fall upon a Monday. In such cases at present, incarceration for two consecutive days results.

Severe Penalty For Killing Tigers

Sumatra Needs Man Eater to Save Her Best Trade.

The natives of Sumatra were greatly excited when the Dutch government forbade them to kill tigers under severe penalties. It was hard to convince them of the necessity to protect the terrible man eater. The most important industry of Sumatra is growing oil palm trees, and it was threatened by the increase of wild boars, which prefer the fruit to all other food, killing the trees with their tusks. The more tigers killed the more wild boars there were. The tigers like wild boar meat better than any other, although it kills also cattle.

Under such circumstances, the government decided to protect the tiger to save Sumatra's main industry.

Want Embargo Lifted

Farmers of Scotland Think Embargo Against Canadian Cattle Should Cease.

Farmers of Scotland are becoming of the opinion that the embargo against Canadian cattle should be lifted, according to a number of letters that have been received by W. F. Stevens, secretary of the Western Stock Growers' Protective Association. "Unless we can get stores in unlimited quantities, many of the present feeding farms will have to be converted into breeding farms to maintain the supply of commercial animals," states W. J. Reid, of Dun, Forfarshire.

New Head to Research Council.

It is stated that President MacKenzie, of Dalhousie University, Nova Scotia, is the choice of the Dominion Research Council for the position of head of that body, in place of the resignation of Dr. MacCallum, who goes to McGill. If President MacKenzie will accept the position, it is stated, he can have it. It is understood that Prof. MacCallum, of Toronto, whose name has been prominently in connection with it, would not have accepted.

Too Many "Generals" in Mexico.

Because of the large number of "generals" who refused to be demobilized and insisted on being retained with their present rank, the Mexican War Department is reputed to be having trouble cutting the army down to 50,000 men. Advice says that the war department's budget for the coming year is a large one.

Manitoba's Wheat Yield

Average Yield Per Acre For 1920 Given As Fifteen Bushels.

The average yield of wheat per acre in Manitoba for 1920 was 15 bushels, according to the final report of the department of agriculture for the year. Threshing is complete with the exception of a few fields of flax, according to the report. Much fall plowing has been completed and the land is in fine shape for next spring's work. The supply of winter feed will meet all requirements.

Following is a summary of conditions, as issued by George C. Bahde, of the Manitoba Department of Agriculture:

"Threshing is practically all finished in Manitoba, although a few scattered lots of flax are yet unthreshed. Now that threshing is done, reports of correspondents as to yields should be fairly accurate. The averages of all reports submitted are as follows: Wheat: just below 15 bushels; oats, 33.5-6; barley, 22.1-10; flax, 8.25; rye, 16.15; potatoes just over 100. The potato crop is all dig."

October has been a very fine month, on the whole, the conditions for plowing have been excellent, and a larger acre—than usual is plowed. Several correspondents report that summerfallowers are particularly satisfactory.

Quick Aerial Service Across Canada

Could Be Accomplished With Aerodromes and Wireless Outfits.

Says Tylee.
With aerodromes marked out every 50 miles and with wireless control of the planes, there would be nothing to prevent a regular, forty-day air service between Halifax and Vancouver, according to General A. K. Tylee, air commodore, who reached Ottawa recently on his return from the trans-Canada flight. General Tylee flew from Winnipeg to Vancouver as a passenger during the recent flight and returned to Ottawa impressed with the possibilities of developing a commercial cross-Canada service.

Protect Your Machinery.

Loss Would Soon Pay For Erection Of Shed.

How many farmers would leave $25, $50 and even $100 in bills out in the open during an entire winter? Sounds absurd, but scores of such bills, in their equivalent of farm implements, are left in the shelter of the open sky all the year. Few farmers who follow this practice do so with a realization of the great loss they are sustaining on the money invested. A hundred dollar machine left out of shelter over winter, means a loss of from five to fifteen dollars.

At this rate it is quite evident that a machinery shed would be paid for in two or three years, even at present building costs.

Bottle Takes Long Journey.

A bottle cast into the Atlantic Ocean near Newfoundland by Sergeant D. McInnes, of Edmonton, when returning to Halifax, September 1919, after serving in Italy, reached Nieuport, Belgium, last August. The bottle contained a message from Sergeant McInnes to a Montreal paper. The finder of the bottle was Paul Vanthier, who mailed the message to Montreal.

A Sympathy Swindle.

An Englishman has just been arrested in London for swindling the relatives of dead soldiers. His plan was to read the death notices in the papers and to write letters to any ex-soldiers that might be on the list, asking for gifts of clothing. The swindler, a Frenchman, had an act of charity to an "old friend" of their lost sons, would send the clothing and frequently important sums of money. —London Graphic.

Show Patriotism By Having Faith In Canada.

Canada is emerging from the after-war muddle with the sun of prosperity shining bright over her broad domain. Her barns are bursting with the foodstuffs for which the older countries hunger. To Can Whitefish Canning Will Give Industry An All Year Market.

Canada is to add whitefish to the world's appetizing canned-foods. A factory for canning the whitefish of Northern Canadian lakes is to be established on Lake Athabasca, Alberta. Whitefish swim in these northern waters, owing to lack of transportation and refrigerating facilities, they supply only a winter market. They are taken in nets lowered through holes in the ice, where they are frozen in temperatures that make all outdoors a refrigerator. They are hauled on dog-sleds to the railway and shipped all over Canada. A United States market has been established in Chicago and other western cities.

In summer the industry is suspended because the fish spoil before they can be got to market. Living in ice-cold water, the whitefish of the Canadian north have a finer flavor than those of the more southern latitudes. Canning them will give the industry an all year market. Whitefish are one of the most extensively marketed of fresh-water fish. Vast quantities are taken in the Great Lakes and shipped all over Eastern Canada and the United States, even in summer.

Britain After the Toy Trade

Have Launched a Big Campaign to Supplant Foreign Toys.

British toy makers have launched a big campaign to supplant foreign toys in the British markets, and since the war a large number of new firms have begun manufacturing and old ones have extended their production. The campaign is being conducted by the British Toy Association, which has branches in all of the principal cities in the United Kingdom where the toy and game industries are prominent. Special advertisements are being inserted in the leading magazines and newspapers, calling attention to the comprehensive range of toys now being manufactured in Great Britain and urging the British public to give preference to British-made goods.

Sound Financing All Round

The Great War brought about many developments and revealed many hitherto unsuspected powers in Canada. This Dominion was discovered as being capable of wielding a military strength and prowess undreamed of by itself or any other people. It demonstrated its ability to produce munitions of war on a scale of great magnitude. Even under adverse conditions, its productive capacity in all directions was shown to be almost beyond measure when all its people were called to sacrifice, serve and work.

But probably Canada's most unexpected and amazing strength was revealed in its ability to finance itself even under the enormous obligations and expenditures which war forced upon it. Before the war, Canada was a borrowing nation, and a borrowing nation on a large scale. The idea of Canada raising from among its own people the money necessary to carry on government and the large expenditures required for development purposes of a national character never suggested itself to the Canadian people. Federal and Provincial Governments, municipalities and large corporations were content to float their bonds and sell their debentures in Great Britain and the United States.

The Great War changed all this. At the outset, Canada borrowed from Great Britain; later it borrowed from the United States. During the last three years of the war, however, Canadians themselves supplied their Government with all the money it required and a sufficient amount over and above its requirements to enable it to grant credits to Great Britain and other countries. Year after year the Canadian people furnished the Dominion Government with sums far in excess of the total of Canada's national debt before the war.

This not only contributed greatly to Canada's strength during the war, but since. Tens of millions of dollars which otherwise would have been drained out of the Dominion in interest payments have been distributed among our own people. The cutting of interest-bearing coupons has become a commonplace in homes all over the country.

What was proven to be good policy for the Dominion as a whole is being recognized throughout the Prairie Provinces of Canada as good policy for this western country; hence we find that the Governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have all devised schemes whereby those of their people who have money to invest may lend it to their respective Governments on gilt-edged security and these Governments re-lend it to those of their people who are in need of money for development and improvement within the Province. As a result, not only is Western money kept in the West, and interest payments thereon earned by Western people, but the money is put to work in the West to further its development and increase its prosperity. And Governments are placed in funds without being obliged to go solely to Eastern and to foreign markets and remit large sums in interest payments to points outside the Province.

Nor is this healthy development, this adding of financial strength and independence to the West, being confined to Provincial Governments. Municipalities are appealing to their own citizens and ratepayers to become the holders of municipal debentures. A gratifying measure of success is attending these efforts—Regina being a notable example where several municipal bond issues have been fully subscribed for by its own citizens.

As a matter of historical fact, even before the Dominion Government adopted the policy of floating popular Victory Loans, the Government of Saskatchewan had inaugurated the policy of going to its own people to provide the money necessary to carry through its Farm Loans plan, and in its appeal upwards of one million dollars was received. Then the Dominion Victory Loans were inaugurated and the Saskatchewan Government withdrew its appeal and held it in abeyance so as not to conflict with the war finance programme of the Dominion. With the war over, and the necessity for Victory Loan campaigns removed, Saskatchewan is again energetically pushing the sale of Farm Loan debentures to its own people.

It is good policy for a province to rely on the bonds of its own Province or municipality. Unlike the big financial corporations, it is not a money-making venture on the part of these public bodies, nor is the money merged in the intricate and costly financial system of the whole country and the world. The system is administered at cost—the lender receiving the highest possible interest rate and the borrower securing his loan at the lowest possible cost.

Through this simple machinery the West is being made more and more economically independent of the East and the big financial corporations, its money is being kept at home, and it is actively at work promoting the further development of the country and increasing the prosperity of all.

Disinfecting Fluid From Electricity

For many years past a local authority in London has been manufacturing disinfecting fluid by electrical means. This enterprise is carried out by the Public Health Department for the benefit of the citizens. The fluid is used in the public baths and in the sick asylums and other public institutions. Any resident is supplied with the fluid free if he brings a bottle to be filled. Nearly seventy thousand gallons are distributed in a year, and the cost is only one half-penny per gallon.

The Suffering Children of Europe

Organizer For League of Red Cross Societies Tells of Need of Europe's Orphans.

"While we at home are intent on industrial expansion and a place in the sun, Europe in its war-weakened condition is fighting for its very existence," said Donald W. Brown, director of the department of organization in the League of Red Cross Societies of the World, which has its headquarters at Geneva, Switzerland. He visited Toronto to learn the Peace program of the Canadian Red Cross Society and to establish closer contact between it and the League.

Having just arrived from Europe, Mr. Brown was able to give the Canadian Red Cross some first-hand information about the people of Europe. He called attention particularly to the condition of the children, so many of whom are now orphans. While the exact number who have lost one or both parents during the war cannot be determined, the most conservative estimate places the number at over ten millions. This number seems quite consistent with the heavy war casualties among so many nations.

The condition of these children is in most cases very pitiable. Many of them have no homes and they are dependent upon whomever may be charitable and kind enough to help them. But there are few who are able to give such help, for the mass of the people of Poland, Galicia, parts of Roumania, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, and other countries are so poor that they have not necessities for themselves. Consequently in the great area between the Baltic, the Black and the Adriatic Seas, there are millions of children who face the next few years, and particularly the coming winter, without hope of decent food and care unless outside assistance is given them. The vitality of these children is already low on account of their having been deprived of fats, milk and sugar when they most needed them, and they are therefore very susceptible to children diseases—particularly rickets.

In addition to the unhappy condition of the children the adult populations are in the direst of misery on account of disease. Suffering has been accentuated by lack of food and clothing, nursing and medical attention, and tuberculosis, smallpox, typhus and dysentery are continuing unchecked.

Typhus, which has so often proved a scourge and menace to the human race, is again prevalent, and unless checked will most likely extend its ravages to an alarming degree.

For these urgent reasons, Mr. Brown said, the League of Red Cross Societies has made an earnest appeal to the people of Canada to give help. He was glad to hear that the cause of the suffering children was being taken up in Canada. He had learned that an appeal on behalf of the British Empire Fund would be made in Canada by the Canadian Red Cross during Armistice week and wished for it every success.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 14

THE POWER AND AUTHORITY OF JESUS.

In chapters 8 and 9 are grouped a number of miracles which exhibit what the King can do over the chief forces of mankind—disease, sin, static power, death, sorrow and storms. It is fitting that they should be grouped here, following the laws of the kingdom, for they show the King's power to administer the affairs of the kingdom, and produce within his subjects the graces of character at first in these laws. It will make the lesson too long to attempt to consider all these miracles. It will also be unsatisfactory to confine ourselves by the lesson committee, so we will select several of the most outstanding ones.

I. Jesus Heals a Leper (8:4).

1. This dreadful disease was the most loathsome and hopeless known. In the Jewish ritual it was regarded as a symbol of sin. It was incurable by man. Only the Divine Physician can cure sin.

2. The leper's faith. His cry was most pitiable, but his faith was strong. He fully believed that Jesus was able, but was uncertain as to his willingness to heal him.

3. Jesus' power. He put forth his hand and touched the leper, bidding the disease to depart, and instantly the man was clean.

11. Jesus Heals the Centurion's Servant (8:5-13).

1. The disease—paralysis. In Paralysis the victim is helpless and disqualified for service.

2. The centurion's faith. He believed that if Jesus would but speak the word his servant would be healed.

3. The wonderful power of the King. He did not need to go to see the centurion's slave and touch him, but only needed to speak the word and it was done.

III. Jesus Calms the Sea (8:23-27).

1. The King asleep in the storm-tossed boat (v. 24). Since the King is the Almighty Creator, he had no reason to fear, and therefore, could well be resting in sleep.

2. The terrified disciples (v. 25). If they had but known him as really the Almighty King they would not have been terrified, for they would have known that no boat could go down with the Christ on board.

3. The King's rebuke (vv. 26, 27). (1) The disciples rebuked for their lack of faith. Instead of looking at the Lord, they were looking at the elements. (2) The sea is made calm. The elements of nature are subject unto him.

IV. Jesus Casts Out Demons (8:28-34).

After stilling the tempest Jesus crossed to the other side of the sea into the territory of the Gadarenes.

1. Met by two men possessed by demons (v. 28). By referring to Mark 5:1-7 and Luke 8:27 we get a conception of the desperate condition of these men. So fierce were they that no one could safely pass that way.

2. What they knew about Christ (v. 29). They knew that he was the Son of God and that he had come to destroy the Devil and his works.

3. The limitation of the Devil's power (v. 31). Although the Devil is mighty, he cannot even enter a hog without God's permission.

4. Christ's power to deliver from the Devil (vv. 30-32). The demons quailed before him not daring to dispute his power, but begged permission to enter the swine.

V. Jesus Healing a Woman With an Issue of Blood (9:20-22).

1. Her helplessness (v. 20). She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years.

2. Her faith (v. 21). Her faith was so strong that she believed contact with the Master's garment would secure the needed help.

3. Her confession (v. 21; cf. Luke 8:47). Jesus had her make a public confession. It was for her good that he had her make this confession, for faith in Christ unconfessed, will naturally weaken.

4. Christ's words of encouragement (v. 22). He told her that it was her faith, not her touch, that saved her.

An Always Ready Pill.—To those of regular habit medicine is of little concern, but the great majority of men are not of regular habit. The worry and cares of business prevent it, and out of the irregularity of life comes dyspepsia, indigestion, liver and kidney troubles as a protest. The run-down system demands a corrective, such as Farnell's Vegetable Pills. They are simple in their composition and can be taken by the most delicately constituted.

Road Engineering Progress
 Britain Still Maintains Great Interest in Road Improvements.
 In view of the rapid development of road traffic in Great Britain an inspection has been carried out over more than one thousand miles of the principal roads, and careful examination made of the experimental lengths which have been laid on various novel systems of construction. It is anticipated that a sum of at least ten million pounds sterling will be spent within the near future on road making and road improvements. British roads have enjoyed the reputation of being the best, all-round, in the world, and there is every sign that the new methods devised by British road engineers to enable road surfaces to withstand heavy motor traffic will maintain that reputation.

Labor Objects to Tax
 Luxury Tax on Some Things Has Led to Unemployment.
 Not the manufacturers themselves, but the effect of organized labor is now endeavoring to secure the removal of the luxury tax on certain kinds of production, basing their action upon the ground that its imposition has led to a great deal of unemployment.
 The delegation pointed out that more than 650 men employed in these trades were at present out of employment in Toronto, and stated that the manufacturers had given as their reason for shortened production of these articles of trade that the people would not buy them with the added cost due to the imposition of the luxury tax.

 "Deutschland, Deutschland—Uber Alles" is dead in Germany. Some day, phoenix-like, it may rise again, but at present it is embalmed. It costs money to hear it in Berlin. From the Diary of A Hudson's Bay Clerk in the Seventies

By O-G-E-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

After a hard winter at Sturgeon River, an outpost from Cumberland House, I at last shipped the winter's fur by York Boat to headquarters, and now for my holiday as I had planned, a hunting trip up the Sturgeon. The party was to consist of an Indian and his family in one large bark canoe and myself in a small bark just large enough for one man and his outfit.

At last we were off, and I looked back at the log shacks we had wintered in with delight at the thought of never seeing them again for, gentle reader, it had been a hard winter, the chief being fish both for men and dogs. We tracked or killed no venison. One amusing incident helped to break the monotony. About the middle of February, if my memory is correct, a dog-train with two weather-beaten travellers arrived. One of these (Owen B. Hughes), was the first Sheriff of Prince Albert in later days and his companion, a native named Knagby. At that time Mr. Hughes was in the employ of Sibbald, Eden & Co., fur traders, and was travelling from Norway House to Duck Lake.

Their snowshoes were worn out and needed re-netting, so the men's wives were left to work at this and Mr. Hughes became my guest. That first evening we had suckers, dried and smoked, nothing else but black tea with plenty of sugar, and I am sure he polished off at least half a dozen. For breakfast, appeared a fine dish of plain boiled suckers, taken out of the stew that morning, for we kept five nets under the ice all winter, catching, however, nothing but large red suckers, until spring when sturgeon came in shoals. I could see Hughes casting hungry glances round the table, but he was too well-bred a man to say anything. For dinner a huge platter (of the old China Willow pattern) with at least twenty sucker heads on it, these, by the way, being much the best part of that fish. Hughes glared at me, showed his chair back, used some strong western epithets as to the way the Hon. Co. fed their clerks, then yelled, "John!" in stentorian tones. John duly appeared. Go to our sleigh and bring such and such articles of food. My but we did feast, and then I explained the situation. Flour being short that winter, I was limited to a clerk's allowance of two hundred pounds. This I would not eat alone, so just used bread on Sundays, my two men and their families sharing with me. After years, seeing Hughes in Prince Albert, we had many a good laugh over this experience.

Our commissariat for the trip was very limited; a small stock of maple syrup which we had obtained by tapping the ash-maple trees in the vicinity, a half of dried fish, four pounds of tea, a little salt and sugar, with a few pounds of flour for making soap. But our hearts were high and full of hope over the prospect of game, beaver especially, for no one had been up the river for years.

We camped the first night about ten miles out, having started late in the day. Fine paddling, smooth stretches of water with scarcely any current, then a small rapid, generally shoal, up which my small canoe would often like a jackfish, while Patrick often had to wade and lighten his heavily laden craft. Fish soup with a little syrup for supper, and then to bed with a determination to kill something edible next day.

We were so again at 10 and called all hands a hasty snack and by noon we had made twenty miles. Here we were lucky in capturing a large sturgeon who was trying to ascend a very shallow rapid. Pushing my canoe ashore I threw myself on the fish and after an exciting struggle, landed him. Results: boiled sturgeon, very good for dinner. Another long hard paddle and we camped at a rapid where bears had been fishing with much success, judging by the remains having scattered about the river bank. About 2 p.m., we passed the mouth of three small creeks and here Patrick found beaver signs and our mouths watered at the prospect of fresh meat. Going about a mile up the main river we pitched our tepee among some large birch trees, there being no underbrush. This was a beautiful camping ground.

After helping to set the tent we returned to the little creek to watch for beaver, both going in the large canoe; and watch we did until too late to see to sleep. Having no luck we made for camp. A few minutes later we were again under way when game was sighted the gunwale of the canoe was shaken. Presently I felt the canoe shiver, and on looking closely at the bank which here somewhat overhung the water, I could see the dim outline of an animal, so quickly fired. An amazing splash followed and we were deluged with water. Hauling the bag on board, it turned out to be a large black timber wolf, valuable for his pelt, but alas, not edible.

We here crossed the river and by this time it was my occasion to give the signal, as being in the bow gave me a better lookout. This time a strong wale was visible going ahead of us, and I at once fired where I guessed the head was. A tremendous splash followed and under the impression I had killed a beaver (who will never bite unless you put your hand in his mouth), I grabbed the wolf fur and with some effort threw it into the canoe behind me. And then arose a battle din, for behold, it was a large fish, the new Canadian, in an address before the Northern Alberta Teachers' Association. These thousands of people, he said, should be able to read and write, and the only direct avenue through which this great number can be reached is through the study of the English language in rural communities.

Other speakers were Prof. Malcolm Wallace, of the University of Toronto, and J. W. Barnett, provincial organizer of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance.

War Against Soviet Subs

Earl Curzon States British Government Does Not Intend to Run Any Risks.

London.—Replying to the Russian Soviet Government's recent note concerning the operation of submarines by the Soviet Navy, Earl Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, says the British Government's policy in the proposed aggressive action of the submarines was based on a Soviet minister's statement when the submarines were launched in the Black Sea that he hoped they would sink entente vessels.

The British Government, he added, did not feel justified in running any risk and now had found its position confirmed by the Soviet note which would permit of a Soviet submarine torpedoing a British ship under the excuse of mistaken identity. The note asserts that the Soviet forces in the Black Sea, are still engaged in open hostilities against British interests and says the Soviet Government "can end this situation by giving the assurances contained in the British note of October 9."

These thousands of people, he said, should be able to read and write, and the only direct avenue through which this great number can be reached is through the study of the English language in rural communities.

Receives New Appointment

New Vice-President in Charge of Operation and Maintenance of C. N. Railways.

Samuel J. Hungerford, who has been appointed Vice-President in charge of Operation and Maintenance of Canadian National Railways, is of the type of man, young in years and old in experience. Born in 1872, he was only 48 last July, but he has been engaged in the business of the "rolling wheel" for 34 years.

As a boy of 14, at Farnham, Quebec, he first really became acquainted with a railway locomotive. Metaphorically speaking, he boarded it then and has made it carry him from the lathe of the machinist's apprentice to the chair of the Vice-President of what will be known as the "Grand Trunk" system is included, the world's greatest railway.

Mr. Hungerford is a man of quick action who never seems to be in a hurry. He has a wide circle of friends in the railway world—friends that he made while mastering his various jobs in the Mechanical Department at important railway points clear across the country. Any of these friends, officer or employee, Eastern or Western, will say that "S. J." is there with the goods, and that he has the present scale of expenditure, amount to 167 million dollars per annum. It is Mr. Hungerford's business to see that the great expenditures of money day by day on the publicly-controlled road are so made as to insure the largest return in condition of track structures and equipment and the movement of the largest amount of traffic possible. Those who know S. J. Hungerford well, have complete confidence in his capacity. He is regarded as one of those men who, with the President, Mr. D. R. Macdonald, set new standards of devotion to duty and loyalty to employers in this case the general public of Canada.

Next U.S. President

Republican Victory in U.S.

Senator Harding Elected President of 'Republic by Sweeping Majority.

New York.—The movement afoot in the United States to have an embargo placed on Canadian wheat imports as a medium of increasing the domestic price of wheat received a comment in the World. The newspaper says:

It must be assumed that in appealing to Washington for an embargo on imports of wheat from Canada, the Chicago Board of Trade is animated by the purely altruistic purpose of helping the growers of Canada and, secondly, to corner wheat and boost the farm price and profit, rather than of helping itself to an old-time corner for the benefit of its own crowd.

Nevertheless, the utter futility of this embargo effort ought to be as apparent to the Kansas farmer as it is to the Chicago speculator. This country is still a producer of wheat beyond its own needs. The price is accordingly fixed, not at home, but in the outside markets, where the exportable surplus goes. Canada has this year grown a wheat crop so large as to have over 100,000,000 bushels for export, and this surplus will directly or indirectly fall upon the Liverpool wheat market and affect the price for the United States as well as for Canada, just as certainly, whether it is first sold in the United States or first sent to Europe.

Such an embargo as is asked for can have no more effect upon the raising of the Kansas or Chicago price of wheat than the damming up of Behring Strait could raise or lower the depth of the Arctic or Pacific Ocean.

The federal trade commission is solemnly at work on statistics on Canadian wheat imports in response to the embargo appeals of the Chicago Board of Trade. The committee should be able to find more useful ways of employing its time.

Condemn Proposed Embargo On Wheat by United States

Adverse Comment Is Made By The New York World.

New York.—The movement afoot in the United States to have an embargo placed on Canadian wheat imports as a medium of increasing the domestic price of wheat received a comment in the World. The newspaper says:

It must be assumed that in appealing to Washington for an embargo on imports of wheat from Canada, the Chicago Board of Trade is animated by the purely altruistic purpose of helping the growers of Canada and, secondly, to corner wheat and boost the farm price and profit, rather than of helping itself to an old-time corner for the benefit of its own crowd.

Nevertheless, the utter futility of this embargo effort ought to be as apparent to the Kansas farmer as it is to the Chicago speculator. This country is still a producer of wheat beyond its own needs. The price is accordingly fixed, not at home, but in the outside markets, where the exportable surplus goes. Canada has this year grown a wheat crop so large as to have over 100,000,000 bushels for export, and this surplus will directly or indirectly fall upon the Liverpool wheat market and affect the price for the United States as well as for Canada, just as certainly, whether it is first sold in the United States or first sent to Europe.

Such an embargo as is asked for can have no more effect upon the raising of the Kansas or Chicago price of wheat than the damming up of Behring Strait could raise or lower the depth of the Arctic or Pacific Ocean.

The federal trade commission is solemnly at work on statistics on Canadian wheat imports in response to the embargo appeals of the Chicago Board of Trade. The committee should be able to find more useful ways of employing its time.

More Outrages in Ireland

Two Civilians Shot to Death in Alleged Attempt to Escape.

Naengh, County Tipperary, Ireland.—The bodies of two civilians were found in the vicinity of Naengh, County Tipperary, Ireland, who were shot to death near here. Two men, arrested on suspicion of having been implicated in the killing, attempted to escape and were shot to death. Repitals followed the laying of the bodies. Licensed premises and a printing office were destroyed by fire, a crematorium was blown up with bombs and the machinery smashed. The inhabitants of Naengh fled into the surrounding country. The noise of firing and explosions was heard throughout the night.

Food Crisis in Russia

Army Is Famished Declares the Bolshevik Premier.

London.—Nikolai Lenine, the Russian Bolshevik premier, frankly admits the seriousness of the food situation in Russia. A Central News dispatch from Copenhagen quotes him as follows:

"Soviet Russia never before has experienced such a food crisis. Moscow and other cities are paralyzed by famine and the army is becoming famished. It is necessary for us to use all means in our power to enforce delivery of foodstuffs by the peasants."

Leon Trotsky, the Bolshevik minister of war and marine, says: "The Red army is in dire need of food and clothing."

Elaborate Preparations Being Made For Taking of Decennial Census

Will Embrace All The Old and Several New Features.

Paris.—Great Britain, France and Italy have signed a tri-party agreement in which they undertake to support each other in maintaining their "spheres of influence" in Turkey. The limits of the areas in which the respective special interests of France and Italy are recognized, are defined by the same document.

This agreement, developed, was signed at Sevres, August 10, the day the public ceremonial of the signing of the peace treaty with Turkey took place. Although not considered a secret one, the agreement has never been made public until now. The document is to come into force at the time the Turkish peace treaty goes into effect. This date is still uncertain.

The agreement defines the special interests of France in Syria and the western part of Kurdistan, bordering on Syria, and of Italy in Southern Anatolia, but the British sphere of influence are not only undefined but are not referred to. This may be interpreted that the British interests may extend to any or all of the remaining parts of the Turkish empire.

Will Not Enter Provincial Political Field

Motion Is Finally Defeated at S.G.G.A. Convention at Prince Albert.

Prince Albert.—A protracted discussion as to whether the Grain Growers' Association of Saskatchewan should enter the political field in that province, was precipitated when the convention of district 12 met here.

In the discussion there appeared to be a good deal of difference of opinion though the sentiment seemed to be about evenly divided. A number of the delegates argued that they could not maintain an attitude of independence if they appeared to favor one political party by remaining out of the province where that party was in power.

J. B. Musselman, the general secretary, made a vigorous speech against the proposal of entering the provincial field. He pointed out that the provincial issues were now separate and distinct from federal ones, Premier Martin having divorced himself from activities in the federal arena.

Mr. Musselman said that any attempt to enter the provincial field in Saskatchewan at the present time would only split the association if there was no rallying issue. He suggested that the resolution be dropped.

Eventually the resolution favoring entry to provincial politics was withdrawn and one substituted condemning the provincial executive for failure to draw up a provincial platform in accordance with instructions at the annual meeting, was carried by a large majority.

A resolution advocating that divisions be created throughout the Dominion from which senatorial appointments must be made, was carried unanimously after considerable discussion.

A resolution was also passed demanding the reinstatement of the wheat board under the direction of the old chairman and vice-chairman.

Disregard "Government Control" and Enforce Liquor Law

Believing that the clear will of the people of the province had been expressed in the recent referendum on the importation of liquor, the Presbyterian synod of Alberta at its meeting Thursday evening emphatically declared that the government legislation on the question and not take heed to the "government control" agitation that is now being made by the moderateists; that abuses such as the selling of medicinal prescriptions should be corrected and that the Presbyterian people of the province should be vigilant to take such measures as will defeat plans being made to subvert present prohibition legislation. A strong resolution urging enforcement of present law on the liquor question as against any system of government control by vendors or dispensaries was passed and will be forwarded to the provincial government as follows:

"Whereas the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in Canada has repeatedly and unanimously pronounced in favor of the total prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of alcoholic liquors for beverage purposes, and has laid it upon its people to do all in their power to end the drink traffic."

"And whereas the recent prohibition campaign in Alberta to forbid the importation into the province of alcohol for beverage purposes was in conformity with the assembly's declarations and was actively participated in by the Presbyterian body in Alberta:

"And whereas despite many heavy handicaps a majority approximately 20,000 has been polled in favor of the said prohibition:

"And whereas already in certain quarters and by certain persons a subversive and persistent effort is being made to thwart the will of the people as democratically expressed at the polls:

"Therefore be it resolved: That the Synod declare emphatically that in its judgement the will of the people is for the prohibition and not for the government control of the liquor traffic:

"That it calls upon the government in the light of this mandate to make such amendments to the present liquor act as will through efficient administration lead to the removal of abuses such for example are apparent in connection with the issuing of medical prescriptions:

"That it warn its people to be vigilant and take such measures as will bring defeat to the plans of any persons or parties who may seek to undermine the prohibition sentiment in the province or subvert the present prohibition legislation:

"That it pledge itself to co-operate with all other organizations that are united with it to achieving the victory of October 20th in retaining our invasion of the registered will of the people.

"That this resolution be read to all the congregations of the synod and that copies of it be sent to the Premier, the Attorney-General, and to all the organizations referred to in the preceding paragraph."

In his report, Rev. A. C. Bryan of the social service branch, stated that up to the present, returns from the referendum showed that a dry majority of 17,768 had been registered and there were yet 196 polling places to hear from. The wet vote had been 35,560 and the dry vote 63,566. These figures did not include the country districts east and west Edmonton and part of the Red Deer division.

The test for the temperance people this year, he said was four times stronger than it was five years ago. Then it was the clear-cut issue of "banish the bar." This year the question of total deprivation of liquor for beverage purposes led many moderate drinkers, who five years ago voted dry, to vote wet this year. He thought that when all the returns came, there would be at least 30,000 of a dry majority which should be sufficient mandate to the government to act upon the promise of the premier to give bone-dry legislation.

The very minute the vote was cast Mr. Bryan contended, there was a position in circulation to ask the government to give a clear and ringing pronouncement of its position on the question, which it did in the passage of the above mentioned resolution.

Increase The Penalties

The department of the attorney general with much effort and great expense and organization makes a successful raid upon certain portions of the province where the license law is not well enforced and convicts a certain number of men. The offenders are punished to the extent of paying a fine which amounts to the profits of a couple of days illicit business.

The municipal authorities realizing that the law is not well enforced co-operate with the department of the attorney-general and succeed in convicting a number of bootleggers of the offence of illicit liquor selling. The courts impose a fine which totals a few hundred dollars. The offenders are somewhat peeved about it, but proceed with the evil game.

That is the situation. Unless the offence of liquor selling is made much heavier, we are not likely to get very far in the enforcement of the act. A bootlegger, violating the laws of the country and debauching the people, is a criminal and should be treated as such. He should not be let off with any ordinary fine. He should be sent to jail and given a stiff sentence.

This is a change which may be made in the law, which should be well remembered by all except perhaps the bootlegger himself. Increasing the penalties set out in the act is not changing the principle of the legislation, but making the legislation more workable. This is a change which should commend itself to prohibitionists interested in the act, and to people who are not in favor of prohibition because of the violations of the act.

A delightful Five Hundred party was held at the home of Mrs. D. Lockman, 11238, 91st street, in honor of Dot Parker, of Lacombe, who is in Edmonton on an extended visit. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Stocks, Mr. and Mrs. McSparran, Mr. and Mrs. Aird, Mr. and Mrs. Cockburn, Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. MacGregor, Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Horne, Miss Donald, Miss Robertson, Miss Blakely, Miss D.
